

Updated Marin County Public Health COVID-19 Guidelines from Superintendent, Kimberly McGrath Tuesday, January 4, 2022

RUSD School Community,

Marin County Public Health (MCPH) has updated their school guidance. As you know, schools follow public health guidelines. MCPH's current guidelines are more restrictive due to the transmissibility of the Omicron variant of COVID-19. Here are the important changes to note from MCPH:

- A negative antigen test is needed to exit isolation and quarantine.
- Isolation can now end after day 5 if there is no fever, symptoms are improving, and with a day 5 negative antigen test. PCR tests are not needed.
- Large gatherings of more than 50 people are not allowed indoors or outdoors.
- Face coverings are required indoors.
- Staff should wear surgical grade or higher-level masks with double masking recommended.
- Face coverings should be worn outdoors when distancing is not possible, except when eating or drinking.
- Visitors are still limited and should be boosted, if eligible.
- Students and staff should get boosted, if eligible.
- Indoor sports should not allow spectators during games or practices.

RUSD has available antigen tests when needed. Feel free to contact your school site. The full public health updated document is attached as well. If we all continue to do our part, we will be even stronger together.

Take care,

Kimberly McGrath
