

A Message From Superintendent Dr. Nancy Lynch

Dear Parents and Guardians,

We are happy to see students return to school from winter break as they continue learning in engaging classrooms and reuniting with their school friends. In my December 16 letter, I mentioned a fun math challenge that would be available for all students in grades 3-8. Paul Devoto, our Teacher on Special Assignment, will share information about LearnStorm with you within the next week. This is a supplemental activity for your children. Some teachers may have students access this challenge during the instructional day, and others use it as an extension activity for students. Paul will provide you with information on how to enroll your 3-8 grade student in this exciting challenge.

On another note, in order for us to continue work with the Town of Tiburon and City of Belvedere to mitigate traffic on Tiburon Boulevard, we ask you to take this brief survey which will guide decisions on how we can further improve the bus transportation services for students and families. Your participation in this survey is very much appreciated, even if you do not currently use the school bus program.

Please access the brief survey at this link:

Center: "Developing Future Innovators" - Parent Workshop with Glen Tripp, Galileo Founder & CEO

Young people who grow into adult innovators will make an impact as professionals, citizens, and community members. They will also have the ability to shape their personal lives in ways that lead to greater happiness and fulfillment. What traits and tools do innovators need to utilize? And what can parents do to help nurture them? Join Galileo Founder & CEO Glen Tripp for an informal workshop offering practical tips for developing your young innovator.
